CARRYING THE BALL

Working with every football player who actually runs with the ball are the ten other men on his team.

It's much the same at Meadow Brook. Although you may meet only a few of our staff, there are many more who work to provide you with the banking services you desire.

A team of nearly 1,000 officers and staff members combine their training and experience to offer complete banking services at offices throughout Nassau County. Call on us soon.

Today's Game

By DICK GORDON

Director of Sports Information

Hofstra's Alumni Association couldn't have selected a finer football game than today's for the annual Homecoming festivities.

The Cortland-Hofstra rivalry on the gridiron, although only in its fifth year, has nevertheless become traditional and also one that gives excellent promise of being long enduring.

Actually this afternoon's encounter is also serving as a "Homecoming" for the many residents of Long Island who are graduates of the upstate Teachers College. Serving as teachers in any number of the primary and secondary schools in the counties of Nassau and Suffolk these folks can't always make the long trek back to Cortland County for their own school's Homecoming, hence the Hofstra home contest with the Red Dragons serves as a suitable substitute.

As for the game itself—it should be a good one. Cortland, after losing its first two to Buffalo and Alfred, a couple of upstate powerhouses, has won three straight. Hofstra also owns a 3-2 record, showing wins over Wilkes, Bridgeport and St. Lawrence and losses to unbeaten Maryland State and Northeastern.

In all probability the form can be tossed out for this one, however. Both squads want to win badly and the result will no doubt produce a tremendous amount of the inspired play that is usually to be found in traditional games.

The series currently stands in Hofstra's favor, 3 to 1. The Flying Dutchmen won the first three contests, two at home and one up in Cortland, before bowing to the Red Dragons in their home lair last fall.

The series opener in 1952 was something of a rout as the Flying Dutchmen won by a 34 to 6 count. In 1953 it was Hofstra 18 to 0, but only after a bitter struggle, while in 1954 it was Hofstra again in a tight one, 20 to 13. Last year Cortland had it all the way, 25 to 0.

Hofstra and Long Island Business

By DR. C. E. STONIER

Through its Bureau of Business and Community Research, Hofstra College acts as a clearing house for information on a wide range of subjects concerned with the welfare of Nassau and Suffolk Counties.

Established by the College in the spring of 1954, the Bureau in its first two years has accumulated a wealth of data, so that it can now boast to be Long Island's most informed agency on matters affecting the local economy.

Each day, inquiries are received and processed for businessmen and others who are seeking the Bureau's counsel. Internally, too, faculty members and students avail themselves of the Bureau's resources.

One of the primary services of the Bureau is the publication of its monthly bulletin entitled, LONG ISLAND BUSINESS, which contains articles, a review of business conditions, and a table of specific business indicators covering the Nassau and Suffolk economy. Subjects covered by this magazine include shopping centers, the aviation industry, the Long Island Railroad, the school problem, recreational needs, labor relations, banking, agriculture, and many others. This material is not only sought by businessmen, but governmental and academic personnel are often equally eager to obtain this information.

In addition, the Bureau undertakes sponsored research for individual firms. Problems investigated may involve finding a suitable location for a new store, pre-testing the market for a new product, setting up an accounting system for a new business, conducting traffic counts, preparing testimony and exhibits for use before regulatory agencies, or most any other matter affecting the decisions of businesses, chambers of commerce or governmental units.

The most far-reaching project, one contributed toward by a number of prominent Long Island business firms, involves a detailed analysis of the Long Island economy. This study is known as the "Long Island Industrial Survey." Its first part, entitled "Industry Looks at Long Island" has only just been completed. It consists of an opinion poll taken by interviewing 150 industrial firms with 20 or more employees and located in Nassau and Western Suffolk. The primary purpose of this poll was to find out how well these firms are satisfied with their present location, and also to determine more specifically the reasons for their likes and dislikes. This information is to be used as a guide in developing a program for greater economic diversification on Long Island.

Part II of the Industrial Survey is concerned with the problem of local taxes; this report is to be released in November. Its purpose is to show industry's and other business' existing and potential contributions toward the cost of county, town and other local services, and also to find out if Long Island has at present any tax disadvantages in comparison with other parts of the New York metropolitan area.

Part III, to be completed by next January or February, deals with Long Island's traffic problem. This phase of the survey takes a look at Long Island's transportation resources, its needs for the adequate movement of persons and property, and is to make recommendations which may help to overcome some of the present shortcomings. Subject to the contribution of further research funds a fourth section of the Industrial Survey is to include a detailed examination of the labor force on Long Island.

The Bureau of Business and Community Research is under the direction of Dr. W. N. Leonard, chairman of the Division of Social Sciences and head of the Department of Economics and Dr. C. E. Stonier, assistant director and editor. The Bureau's chairman is Dr. William Childs, who is also chairman of the Division of Business.

In addition, Dr. H. L. Wattel serves as economist, William F. Clarke as research assistant and Marie Mirabella as secretary. A number of staff members, each representing a different field of specialization act as an editorial board. They are also available to undertake special problems and research in their respective areas of competence.

Over the past two years, the Bureau has had some 200 students on its payroll who have participated in projects primarily as interviewers, traffic checkers, tabulators and in other capacities. It is the hope of the staff of the Bureau that its services, especially the Industrial Survey, will lay the foundation for a permanent subsidy by business and industry, so that it may continue with its work which no other agency is at present equipped to do as extensively for the benefit of the people who live and work in Nassau and Suffolk.

Homecoming

By BILL KAISER, Alumni Secretary

TODAY IS ALUMNI HOMECOMING. Our past three Homecoming Days have been subjected to wind and rain, excessive heat, and a violent snow storm, in that order, and with absolutely no faith in local weather reports, we are counting on a "good" day today.

Welcome all Hofstronians. We also extend greetings to the large contingent of Long Island-resident, Cortland Alumni who are present. We expect to win!

At half-time, the Pershing Rifles' (Hofstra's ROTC Honor Society), Drill Team will perform. This unit is commanded by Cadet Lt. Col. James Finger '57. As the Drill Team leaves the field, the Hofstra Band under the direction of Mr. Frederick Warren, will form up for the Coronation of the 1956 Alumni Homecoming Queen. The five undergraduate finalists will be introduced by alumni association President Joseph M. Margiotta '50, and the Queen will receive her crown of office from the 1955 Alumni Homecoming Queen, Miss Juanita Hampton '57.

The alumni judges who faced up well to the difficult task of choosing the Homecoming Queen are Tom Smith '44, Jack Koehler, '47, George Headley '50, Ed Schmidt '51, Ed Kuhnel '54 and Chick Evans '56. The 1956 Queen will present the alumni trophy to the undergraduate organization with the best Homecoming Display. Hofstra's band and Cortland's band will perform for the remainder of half-time.

TONIGHT IS THE ALUMNI HOMECOMING DANCE. It will be held at Fairlanes, New Hyde Park, beginning at nine p.m. The Homecoming Queen will receive her silver trophy at midnight, and award the Alumni's Outstanding Player Trophies (for a back and a lineman).

The varsity squad will attend the dance as guests of the alumni. There will be continuous music by Robert Dessart and Art Pietrow and their orchestras. All bid holders are eligible for drawing for a large number of excellent door prizes. We hope to see you there.

Special discount bids for Hofstra alumni and undergraduates (students must present student activity card), will be sold at the ticket booths after the game. Bid price (per couple), at the door is $5.00.
